Temp Mores - Grades 9 and 10

This course explores significant national and global events shaping our world today. Students will engage critically with news stories, political developments, social movements, economic trends, environmental challenges, and technological advancements. Through reading, discussion, research, and media analysis, students will develop informed perspectives, strengthen their ability to evaluate sources, and understand the broader context behind current headlines. Emphasis will be placed on respectful dialogue, critical thinking, and the role of civic engagement in a democratic society. The course content evolves weekly to reflect timely and relevant issues, encouraging students to become active, informed global citizens.
