Elements of Literature: This course explores the many different genres through which writers express themselves. From epics to sonnets, from plays to short stories to novels, Elements of Literature will expose students to a variety of material throughout the history of the written word, and throughout the world. This class will, at times, overlap with the Ancient History course. Students will read, write, and discuss literature. A lively course, Elements of Literature is designed to prepare the 8th grade students for the rigors of upper school writing.
